Joining the firm in 1997 as an architectural draftsman, John went on to graduate from Drexel University and continued his internship with the firm. In 2007 he became an Associate Partner. John's areas of experience include religious, commercial, healthcare, libraries and retail projects.

An avid sports fan, John's thesis at Drexel University was designing a minor league ballpark in Lancaster City, prior to the now existing Clipper Magazine Stadium. The project was chosen as a finalist for the Pierson Prize, an annual top thesis award at Drexel. John is particularly loyal to the Philadelphia Phillies and shares his love of sports with his family.
